

My happiest day

My happiest day is probably my 11th birthday last year {2020} this is why:

I thought my birthday was going to be really good because I was going to see a ballet and see my Nan but, I obviously couldn't because of Covid {lockdown} starting. So instead of doing that, because of Covid, I asked mum if we could have an afternoon tea at home as a birthday dinner. The day of my birthday I woke up and got ready for school, because it was a school day, then, once I got dressed, I went downstairs and there were presents on the table for me. I opened them and I loved my gifts, then mum lit the candles on the cake and they sang "Happy Birthday" then we had some cake; yummm! Then it was time for school, so I took everything to my room, put my birthday badge on, and headed to school. Then the day was finished and we went back home and, waiting for me at home, was my birthday dinner. When I got in I got dressed then we sat down to eat. It was lovely, there were fancy cups and tea pots and everything; it was great! I had coffee, my fave, and the others had tea. After that I played with my toys that I got. I was so lucky!
