

Now I am Ten

The day I turned eight,
It made me feel very great,
I spent my time up in Scotland,
Playing around in the golden sand,
Laughing with my family and blowing out candles,
Going for a walk collecting seashells,
Breathing in the sea air salty smells,
And that was the happy day I turned eight.

The day I turned nine,
I felt totally divine,
A day filled with magic and lifelong memories,
Gorgeous green leaves that hung from the trees,
My birthday in Disney was very well spent,
I got to meet Peter Pan in a remarkable tent,
When it got late Goofy and his pals came with cake,
On a huge Mickey Mouse decorated plate,
And that was the special day I turned nine.

Now I am ten,
I have been feeling quite zen,
I am getting quite grown up,
With my family and some luck,
I hope being ten will be lots of fun,

Racing my friends and going for runs,
Football and Minecraft are my favourite games,
My end of junior school photo will soon be hung in its frame,
I cannot wait to have a birthday again,
And have more happy days like I do now I am ten.

James McDouall